Public Law Disputes, Commercial Infrastructure
& Environmental Sustainability

*Constitutional precision.
Commercial foresight. Sustainable transition.*

Advising institutions and corporate decision-makers on public law disputes, infrastructure projects and sustainability mandates where procedural rigor, commercial judgment and regulatory transition must converge.

Complex frameworks. Clear direction.

Alper Örnek advises institutions, corporate groups and business decision-makers on matters where public law, complex infrastructure and regulatory transformation intersect. Over ten years of practice - including seven continuous years at leading law firms followed by service as Chief Legal Counsel to a prominent corporate group - he has developed particular depth in Constitutional Court and ECHR remedies, real estate and construction transactions, procurement, healthcare regulation, Carbon Law and Emission Trading Systems. His work combines procedural rigor with commercial judgment across both contentious and transactional mandates.

His advisory method is architecture-led: identify the controlling public-law and commercial constraints, structure a defensible route through them, and align legal protection with operational delivery and sustainable transition.

PUBLIC LAW & CONSTITUTIONAL LITIGATION

He brings substantial experience in public law disputes and procedural strategy, including individual applications before the Constitutional Court and mandates involving the European Court of Human Rights. His work combines disciplined issue framing, procedural precision and remedy design, while supporting regulated businesses - particularly healthcare providers - in translating complex public-law requirements into defensible operational frameworks.

INFRASTRUCTURE, LAND & SUSTAINABILITY

His transactional practice spans high-value real estate and construction matters, turnkey works contracts, distributorship structures, public and private tenders, and zoning and parcelation processes. Alongside this infrastructure practice, he advises on Carbon Law, ETS implementation and green transformation projects, including carbon-footprint compliance work aligned with ISO-14071 frameworks.
